THE NEXT SENATOR.

The Piocha Record has this to say relative to the fight for U.S. Senator next year:

A San Francisco disputch says that Senator Jones' new affitude on the currency question is provoking much comment in political and financial circles there. Well informed Nevada politicians say that if it be sure that Senator Jones' new attitude on the politicians say that if it be sure that he has dopped squarely over to the greenback party he has materially lessened his chances for re-election from the Silver State. In this con-nection the name of Judge Dick Menck, of Virginia City, is frequently mentioned as the Bonanza candidate for Jones' place. Sharon and the railroads, it is said will also favor Mesick, . So it is seen that Jones cannot well afford to make a with reference to a matter of so much linelades everything Staple. Novel and Choice is that line. importance as the currency.

SCTRO INTERVIEWED.

The indefetigable Sutro has been anbjected to the pumping process of an interview, in which we find the following in regard to himself and his great bore: "People must not look upon the tunnel in the light of a prospecting enterprise. At present the intention is simply to push the tunnel ahead as expeditiously as possible and discourage all side issues. The work of prospecting has never been prosecuted in any way and would not be attempted until the tunnel was put through. He expressed the opinion that before the Sava ge ground was reached the tunnel could be expected to out several valuable ore bodies. As to rumors of a change of the control of the stock, he answered emphatically that the management could never be wrested from him. —Ex.

GRAND PRIZE ORE.-We are in reccipt of a magnificent specimen from the 250 foot level of the Grand Prize mine. Elko county. There is no mistaking its quality. It certainly comes from a fissure like our Comstock, or it belies its parentage and there is no truch in butare. The ledge from which this specimen came the manner in which circus riding is is twelve feet wide; and a fair sample of the whole yielded an assay of $199 50. There is a strip next the hanging wall three and one-half feet delight of all the boys and many of wide which averages over $250. The sample sent is beautiful sulphuret ora, carrying a fair proportion of chlorides and covered in places with nodules of native silver, such as gladden the eyes of old miners wherever found.—Exterprise.

Bring Forward the Crops.

Early cultivation and special manuring do woulders in bringing for-ward annual crops. From a neglect to give the soil an early and frequent stirring, weeds obtain possession of the land and retard the crop, thereby very much lessening the profits. Special manuring is also much neg-, lected. A handful of plaster sprinkled about each hill of potatoes, an application of superphosphate to corn, early vegetables and girden DUT AND RELL strictly on commission Mining Stocks, U. #### Locations and Soils Best for Orchards,

Many and varied views on this subject have been presented by those who have given their record in the me tings of horticultural and pomo-logical societies. The whole question, however, rests in the fact that the tree must have its roots in soil fitted to its wants, and where there is in undercurrent of moisture that, can be taken up by the tap or lower roots in times of dry atmosphere and lack of moisture up m the surface. Again, trees should not los situated in low valleys or any confined air so ice, without an under ground drainage, for here the cold is in-reased, and, added to the moisture of the valley, is often five to seven or ten degrees of Faurenheit be ow that of the high ground adjoining. Some of the most valuable or hards known stand on elevated situations, with treat do not grow as rapidly as in deeper and richer soils, but they become fruitful sooner, and continue a long and productive life.

Thorough drainage in all cases is essential to healthy growth of tree and productiveness. Aspect is also a material circumstance, and should! be modified by the climate and variety of fruit to be grown. A peach orchard will bear warmth better than one of the hardy, firm wooded varieties of apptes, pears and plums. It is well for the planter to study the position wherever he intends to plant, and ere deciding upon positions for certain trees, look over the surrounding country and note the success or failure of others who have gone before him in the work. According as this is adapted to the growth and character of planted, will be his success. It is not policy to stimulate trees into growing too luxuriantly by means of CIGARS, SMOKING AND CHEWING manures, but a healthy, steady, yearly growth, ripening the wood perfectly, forms the most permanent Compounding of Prescriptions. orchard.
